

Resource Allocation

Session Law 2011-264

Directed DHHS to use managed care strategies, including care coordination and utilization management, to reduce the trend of escalating costs in the State Medicaid program while ensuring medically necessary care and deploy a system for the allocation of resources based on the reliable assessment of intensity of need. The Department shall design these strategies to efficiently direct consumers to appropriate services and to ensure that consumers receive no more and no less than the amount of services determined to be medically necessary and at the appropriate funding level.

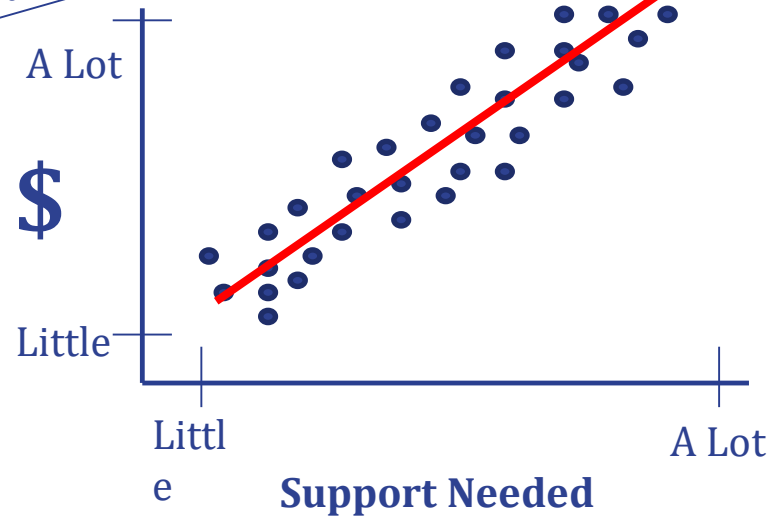

- Resource Allocation is a way that policy makers can make disciplined fiscal choices that are fair, make the best use of available money, but also are consistent with driving system principles.
- Resources are allocated to people based on their assessed level of need, so that each person receives what they need -- no more and no less.
- The resulting model is a “best fit” solution so care must also be taken to accommodate individuals with extraordinary needs.

We want to move
from a low

...to a high correlation like
THIS

Only a modest relationship between needs and supports with significant variability among individuals with similar needs (each diamond represents an individual)

First, levels are established to group individuals with similar needs

Those above the budget for their Level are reduced (and may be stepped down over time); those below may or may not increase based on their decisions

Supports Intensity Scale

The Supports Intensity Scale (SIS) is an assessment tool to measure the supports an individual needs to live a meaningful life in the community. It is used to inform supports planning and also resource allocation.

People are asked questions about their specific level of need for support in these areas:

- Home activities
- Community activities
- Health and safety
- Medical and behavioral challenges

For information on SIS reliability, validity & use by states go to:
<http://www.siswebsite.org/>

Supplemental Questions

- Training for Interviewers on the Supplemental Questions
- A process for verifying affirmative responses to the questions

- How will this happen?
 - The MCOs conduct the Supports Intensity Scale (SIS)
 - The MCOs upload the SIS data to SIS Online
 - HSRI accesses SIS Online and applies an algorithm in an IT System using age, SIS Score, Supplemental Questions, and Residential Setting
 - This generates an initial level and individual budget
 - The MCO accesses the Individual Budgets / Levels and generates the Individual Budget Letter.
